Public Information Officer

Winter has come and will soon be gone, and while we look forward to longer days and more sunshine, a lot of important updates have happened during this season.

The Medical Board of California’s (Board) recently-elected president, Kristina D. Lawson, writes her first “President’s Message” sharing her journey and passion with the Board over the past five years, along with her top priorities for 2021 on page 9.

As in every Winter newsletter edition, the Board shares legislation that is pertinent to the practice of medicine in California. Find the 2020 legislative summaries on page 13.

We’re also introducing a new column – the Partner Updates Column – intended to distribute important and relevant information for licensees from the Board’s trusted partners. This edition contains news and updates from the California Department of Public Health.

Other important topics you won’t want to miss are the updates on CURES licensing fees, the Board’s Sunset Report, and information about electronic prescriptions (AB 2789) which goes into effect Jan. 1, 2022.
SAVING EYES & LIVES

Dr. Berry
A wife, mother, researcher, lover of fashion, Peloton-rider, and social media influencer – Jesse Berry, M.D., is living proof you can be a doctor while living a well-rounded, fulfilled life. In fact, she encourages it.

Blogging about the ups, the downs, and the in-betweens, Dr. Berry urges her readers to pursue all of their passions – leading by example and transparency.

The first in her family to attend college, Berry, a Wisconsin native, found her passion in the early 2000s during medical school when she went on two ophthalmology medical missions to Africa and India.

“I had no desire to do ophthalmology,” says Berry, now an Associate Professor of Ophthalmology at the University of Southern California (USC) and the Associate Director of Ocular Oncology at Children’s Hospital Los Angeles. “At the time, I probably couldn’t tell you the difference between ophthalmology and optometry.”
While on her medical missions, Berry assisted with cataract surgeries. People would travel from all over the region to remote camps, navigating by cane and often guided by young grandchildren. A day after surgery, the once-blind patients would take their eye patches off and could see. There was singing, dancing, and celebrating – Berry knew she found her calling.

“As someone who is interested in medicine, public health, and giving back to people in need, it was such an impactful experience,” she says.

Today, Berry takes care of patients with a very rare and devastating eye cancer called retinoblastoma – which can rob children of their vision or even their lives if not caught early enough or treated appropriately.

With only 250-300 new cases in the US every year, Berry works at the third largest retinoblastoma center in the country, Children’s Hospital Los Angeles (CHLA).

Often giving families heart-breaking diagnoses – as 30 percent of kids diagnosed with retinoblastoma have it in both eyes and are at risk later in life – Berry says having a daughter of her own has made her a better doctor.

“When I go in and see these parents really scared and struggling, I get it, I would feel very similar,” she says. “I try to put myself in their position. How would I feel if this was a doctor talking about (my daughter) Daphne? And how would the doctor best engender my trust?”

Along with seeing patients, over the last two years Berry has been working on exciting, ground-breaking research, what she calls “a beautiful whirlwind” since making an important discovery.

“The cancer in the eye of the kids, the retinoblastoma, it cannot be biopsied. My whole body of research is about using the aqueous humor, the clear fluid in the front of the eye, to act as a liquid biopsy to the tumor,” says Berry, who hopes to bring the research to the clinical space in the next few years. “We’re able to find tumor DNA, tumor molecules, and all sorts of really impactful things you would normally get from a biopsy.”

Berry credits her ability to work at CHLA and perform crucial research to the Steven M. Thompson Loan Repayment Program – created to increase health care access in medically underserved areas of California. The program repays physicians up to $105,000 in educational loans in exchange for three years of full-time service.
“When you have six figures of loans to pay off, it can be really hard to step away from clinical care and the potential pay cuts that brings,” says Berry, whose family didn’t have the financial means to send her to medical school. “I would have gone to medical school either way because I really wanted to be a doctor, but it opened up so many opportunities and gave me such freedom to pursue my passion.”

Following undergraduate and medical school at Harvard University, Berry participated in a year-long internship at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York, which has a notable retinoblastoma program. It was there she fell in love with the process and unique opportunity to diagnose and work with children and follow them throughout their lives.

After a three-year surgical residency at USC, Berry completed her fellowship at CHLA in 2014 – a “patient-centered practice and hospital” according to Berry, and where she has worked ever since.

“We treat kids regardless of insurance status. Many are on Medi-Cal with very limited means,” says Berry. “The hospital supports us in taking care of these patients, whatever they need.”

Berry’s heart for helping those less fortunate stems from her own childhood experience, and the reason she was motivated to go into medicine initially – her family dentist.

“Even though my family didn’t have the means to pay him, he took care of my teeth,” says Berry, “I was so inspired that he would go to school, go to training, and give it to people who needed it the most, regardless of their ability to pay.”

As dogs bark in the background, and baby Daphne competes for her mom’s attention, Berry talks about life during the pandemic.

“Lots of Zoom,” she laughs.

Because her patients’ needs are considered urgent, Berry has continued seeing them in the clinic essentially since the beginning of lockdowns in March 2020, but with some difficulty.

“Connecting with families and patients over their diagnoses and making them feel comfortable is something I care about, and the mask really hinders that,” says Berry. “They can’t see my face and I’m telling them this crazy thing they didn’t know existed. That’s been a hard part of the pandemic for sure.”

Being at high risk to contract the virus, Berry decided to get the COVID-19 vaccine after much research and contemplation in order to protect her family.
“I just felt like I’m the biggest risk factor for getting my husband and Daphne sick, and I wanted to do whatever I could to lower that risk as long as I felt it was safe,” says Berry who received her first shot of the vaccine and is waiting for round two. “I decided the vaccine was safer than me getting the virus.”

During quarantine, exercise and hobbies have been instrumental to Berry’s self-care. Most important, however, is her family.

“I spend my whole day working to bring another family a healthy child, and I’m so blessed to have a healthy child at home,” says Berry, who encourages physicians to feel emboldened to have children at any point in their career. “More than ever before, self-care isn’t just taking a bubble bath; invest in things you love, things that are true passions in your life, and don’t hide from that.”

In a recent Instagram post, Berry encapsulates this very sentiment with a picture of her husband and daughter (who resembles Berry with a head full of curls) by writing, “Sunday plans: these two. And maybe some more Gossip Girl binging while Daphne naps. My day tomorrow starts at 6. I’m learning more and more that to create a rich home and career life, you need to invest in both in an intentional way. So today is for rest and silliness and pjs until noon. Tomorrow there will be plenty of time for career, today is for home.”

Thinking back over her time in residency, Berry offers advice for current and aspiring residents: before you choose a residency, understand how you like to learn.

“For me, I wanted a place that was really hands on, where it mattered if you showed up. I wanted a place where I saw all sorts of crazy things so I’d be able to handle anything thrown my way,” she says. “Knowing yourself and your comfort zone as a doctor is important.”

Berry hopes to continue inspiring young trainees considering medical careers through her Instagram posts, demonstrating through her own life that balancing home life and work life is possible.

In an Instagram post from June 2020, a happy, but tired-looking Berry in royal blue scrubs writes, “Today was long, made harder by COVID, but I’m headed home to my squish knowing I helped a few babes and their families today. Knowing that I’m blessed to love what I do and honored to be here for patients during these critical times. Lucky to know that when I leave Daph, it’s always to do something I am passionate about…Just know that what you’re working for is so very worth it. Even at the end of a 12+ hour day (that isn’t really over yet), it’s still, entirely worth it. Xx”
PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE
A New Year & New Beginnings

With 2021 in full swing, I thought it would be appropriate to begin my first President’s Message with a brief introduction.

I’ve had the honor and privilege of serving on the Medical Board of California for the past five years and am excited to continue serving the people of California as Board President. Serving on the Board has truly been a labor of love – and a way to honor the legacy of my father, the late Dr. Erno Daniel. My father was an internist and geriatrician who graduated from the UCLA School of Medicine, and practiced medicine for his entire career at the Sansum Clinic in Santa Barbara.

I take my role as a public member on the Board seriously, and am committed to fulfilling and advancing the Board’s consumer protection mission. I look forward to working alongside my fellow Board members to meet the Board’s mission. That being said, there is a lot of work ahead of the Board and its staff in 2021 as we enter the sunset review process.

Every four years, the Board has the opportunity to work with state legislators and stakeholders to improve consumer protection in California through the sunset review process, and this year we have a lot of great ideas. The Board recently posted these ideas and other pertinent information regarding its licensing and enforcement functions in the 2020 Sunset Review Oversight Report.

Aside from the sunset report, another of my top priorities as Board President will be to continue the dialogue that my predecessor, Denise Pines, began with consumer advocates and other interested parties. These meetings allow the Board and the public to come to the table and engage in conversation about the Board, gather feedback, and talk about ways to improve the Board.

A new year also means new laws. Inside this edition of Medical Board of California News, you will find information on these new laws that affect the practice of medicine in California. I strongly urge you to read through this edition of newsletter and familiarize yourself with the law changes.

THE MOST EFFICIENT WAY TO FILE A COMPLAINT

Emmalee Ross
Public Information Officer

You may have made a complaint about a physician to the Medical Board of California (Board) through social media, such as Facebook or Twitter, and received a message similar to, “The Board cannot process complaints through social media. Please file a complaint online.” The Board needs to gather all the necessary information to review your complaint and begin the investigation process, and social media is not the best platform for managing sensitive, confidential details.

A complaint may be submitted a few ways: online, via email at complaint@mbc.ca.gov, or printed and mailed or faxed. The Board investigates complaints involving medical doctors, licensed midwives, polysomnographic trainees, technicians and technologists, and research psychoanalysts. For complaints regarding other license types, please visit the Department of Consumer Affairs’ website.

If you’d like to follow up on your complaint once it has been filed, you may contact the Central Compliant Unit at 916-263-2528, or via email: complaint@mbc.ca.gov. By speaking with the analyst assigned to your complaint, you will be able to get the most recent status information.

Your analyst may need to request additional information, such as signed release forms to obtain your medical records. If the Board is unable to obtain documentation, evidence,

CURES FEE INCREASES COMING SOON

As required by Assembly Bill (AB) 3330, the fee charged to maintain the Controlled Substances Utilization Review and Evaluation System (CURES) is set to increase from $12 to $22 for licenses that expire on or after July 1, 2021. The fee will then decrease to $18 for licenses expiring on or after July 1, 2023.
The Medical Board of California (Board) recently posted its Sunset Review Oversight Report 2020, highlighting the work the Board accomplished on behalf of California consumers during the past four years. The report features a variety of information pertaining to the Board’s licensing and enforcement efforts, an update on previous issues since the last sunset review, and new issues the Board would like to address during this sunset review process. One key item is a necessary fee increase that will support the Board’s operations.

Sunset review is an opportunity for the Board to work with state legislators and stakeholders to review the Board’s accomplishments and discuss possible changes in the law that will support its mission of consumer protection.

The first sunset review hearing date has not been scheduled as of the posting of this newsletter, however, the Board will post the information on its website and social media sites, and send an email to news alert subscribers. To sign up for Medical Board news alerts, please visit the Board’s website.

This prohibits any licensee regulated by a DCA board from including in a contract or proposed contract a provision that limits a consumer’s ability to initiate, or participate in, a board investigation of that licensee. Contains various other provisions, including the following related to the Board:

1. Amend Business and Professions Code (BPC) section 125.9 to state that a DCA licensee may be subject to discipline for failure to pay a fine or comply with an order of abatement, or both, within 30 days of the date of assessment or order.

2. Amend BPC section 2065(h) to remove unnecessary language related to postgraduate training obtained in another state or Canada.

3. Amend BPC section 2113(e) to allow the Board to accept a clinical practice appointment pursuant to that section as qualifying time to meet the postgraduate training requirement needed to qualify for licensure.

4. Amend BPC section 2135.5 to clarify that an applicant for a California license who holds a physician and surgeon’s license issued in another state or Canada may qualify if they meet the recently added 36-month postgraduate training requirement, as specified.

As noted in the legislative summaries, starting January 1, 2021, individuals in the following categories who apply for licensure by the Medical Board of California may seek an expedited licensure process.

- Refugees pursuant to section 1157 of title 8 of the United States Code;
- Those granted asylum by the Secretary of Homeland Security or the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to section 1158 of title 8 of the United States Code; or,

In order to receive the expedited licensure process, individuals must provide documentation of their refugee, asylee, or special immigrant visa status when submitting their application package. Please note that this does not mean a license must be issued, but simply that the process will be expedited.

For more information and documentation examples, please visit the Department of Consumer Affairs’ website.

Beginning January 1, 2022, all prescriptions issued by a licensed prescriber will need to be done electronically pursuant to Assembly Bill (AB) 2789.

The law requires that all prescriptions in California shall be issued as an electronic data transmission prescription (e-prescriptions). The law, however, provides certain exemptions including, if an e-prescription is temporarily unavailable because of technological or electrical failure, or if the prescription is dispensed by a pharmacy located outside California. The exemptions to these requirements are included within Business and Professions Code section 688.

Under this law, a healthcare practitioner who does not utilize an e-prescription to issue a controlled substance prescription shall document the reason as soon as practicable, and within 72 hours of the end of the end of the technological or electrical failure.

Healthcare practitioners who fail to meet the requirements of AB 2789, will be referred to the appropriate state professional licensing board solely for administration sanctions, as deemed appropriate by the Medical Board of California (Board).

The Board recommends that all licensed prescribers have paper prescription forms available that meet the requirements of Health and Safety Code section 11162.1, should a technological or electrical failure prevent a prescription from being issued electronically.

In June 2010, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) established the Electronic Prescriptions for Controlled Substances (EPCS) procedures. The DEA Title 21 Code of Federal Regulations provides EPCS guidance including, third-party certification that prescription software applications meet DEA requirements, identify-proofing of prescribers, two-factor authentication when signing prescriptions, and access controls established by software users. Part 1311 of Title 21 specifies the requirements in detail. For assistance, or more information on EPCS, contact EPCS@usdoj.gov.

For additional information about these requirements, please visit the California Legislation Information webpage.
I am retiring and will no longer be practicing. Do I need to do anything with my license?

While the law does not require you to change the status of your license, you do have several options to choose from which can have an impact on your renewal fees and continuing medical education (CME) requirements. If you wish to change the status of your license, you will need to do so before your license expires in order to avoid a delinquent status (30 days following the expiration date) and the imposition of additional fees. The license status you choose will vary depending on your circumstances, as described below.

Retired Status: A licensee who applies for a retired license is exempt from paying renewal fees and CME requirements. However, if you are renewing your license at the same time you are applying for retired status, California Business and Professions Code (BPC) Section 2436.5 requires licensees to pay a mandatory $25 fee. If the license is current, a $25 fee is not required until renewal. A retired status license must be renewed every two years. Once a license is retired, no practice is permitted in California, including providing treatments of any kind, prescribing medications, and diagnosing conditions.

If you choose to return to practice medicine, you must complete an application to restore your license, pay the full $820.00 renewal fee, and provide proof of completing required CME.

Inactive License: A physician who wants to retain a license, while not actively practicing medicine in California, may apply for an inactive license. With an inactive license, a physician may not practice medicine in California, and does not need to comply with CME requirements.

Inactivating a license does not change the expiration date, and the renewal fee is the same as an active license. To return to active status, you must complete an application to restore your license, and provide proof of completing required CME.

Surrender of License: A physician may apply to voluntarily surrender their license, returning their Wall Certificate and the last license issued to the Medical Board of California (Board). Once the application is completed and approved, the Board will notify you of the date your license is canceled. A physician who surrenders their California license may not practice medicine in California, no longer pays renewal fees, and is not obligated to take CME. A surrendered license may not be renewed, reissued, reinstated, or restored. To regain licensure, you must apply for a new license, and meet current licensing requirements.
I have a retired license, but want to assist during the pandemic. How do I activate my license?

On March 30, 2020, Governor Newsom issued Executive Order N-39-20, giving the Director of the Department of Consumer Affairs (DCA) authority to waive professional licensing requirements for the healing arts boards under DCA during the COVID-19 State of Emergency. DCA-20-91 extends the temporary waiver of continuing education requirements and payment of required fees for individuals seeking to restore a retired/inactive license until July 1, 2021, or when the State of Emergency ceases to exist, whichever is sooner.

If you meet the criteria, complete an application to temporarily restore your license to active status. Once the Board confirms your medical license is restored, you may register with the California Health Corps.

For questions or to discuss which license status option is best suited for you, please contact the Board at 1-800-633-2322 or webmaster@mbc.ca.gov.

I would like to volunteer my services. Is there a special license I need?

To apply for voluntary, unpaid service, you must complete the voluntary service application (which waives the initial license or renewal fee) and the initial application for a California physician's and surgeon's license (if you do not hold a current California license). While the initial and renewal fees are waived, BPC Section 2436.5 and BPC Section 208 require licensees to pay a mandatory $25 fee and $12 fee every two years at the time of renewal. A voluntary service licensee must comply with CME requirements.

If you want to apply for a voluntary license, but your license is currently in delinquent status, a payment of all accrued renewal fees, a delinquent fee, a penalty fee, plus the $25 and $12 mandatory fees must be submitted with the voluntary service application.

The Board developed the Volunteer Physician Registry (VPR) to help provide access to physicians who want to provide voluntary services in California. The registry is intended to be used by clinics or other entities seeking volunteer physicians.
PARTNER UPDATES
California Department of Public Health
The California Department of Public Health (CDPH) has launched the California Immunization Registry – Medical Exemption (CAIR-ME) website to request, issue, manage, and track medical exemptions from required immunizations for children attending school or childcare facilities. CAIR-ME was created in response to Senate Bills 276 and 714 passed in 2019.

As of January 1, 2021, new medical exemptions for children can only be issued using the CAIR-ME website. MDs and DOs licensed in California can register to use CAIR-ME at any time in order to issue a medical exemption. Current users of CAIR2 will still need to register to use CAIR-ME. Instructions are available on CAIR-ME to guide you through registration and submission of a medical exemption.

For more information about the new requirements and process for submitting exemptions in CAIR-ME, CDPH has posted a previously recorded webinar available for on-demand viewing on the CAIR-ME website.
The California Department of Public Health (CDPH) urges healthcare providers to be aware of the risk of wound botulism in patients who inject drugs, in light of an increase in suspected wound botulism cases in California from October to December 2020.

As opiate and injection drug use (IDU) have increased in the US amidst the pandemic, physicians should consider the diagnosis of botulism in patients who present with cranial nerve deficits and a history of IDU. CDPH requests physicians immediately report any patients with suspected botulism to the communicable disease program of the local health department (LHD) of the patient’s residence. If an emergency occurs afterhours, and the LHD cannot be reached, physicians may contact the CDPH Duty Officer at (916) 328-3605.

In addition to the above steps, CDPH recommends physicians counsel patients (who report opiate and other IDU) on risks, signs, and symptoms of wound botulism – along with other infectious complications associated with IDU (e.g., HIV, Hepatitis B and C, endocarditis).

Timely clinical diagnosis and treatment of wound botulism may be lifesaving. Botulism is both a medical and public health emergency and California Code of Regulations Title 17 requires that healthcare providers immediately report suspected botulism cases to their LHD.

Wound Botulism in California

Botulism is a rare but potentially fatal paralytic illness caused by a potent neurotoxin produced by Clostridium botulinum (C. botulinum), the anaerobic bacteria found naturally in the environment in soil and water. Wound botulism occurs when C. botulinum spores germinate in a wound and produce neurotoxin. California reports the highest number of wound botulism cases in the US, almost always associated with IDU.

Reports to the CDPH of suspected cases of wound botulism have recently increased; 23 patients with suspected wound botulism associated with IDU have been reported to the CDPH from October 1 to December 31, 2020. This is a marked increase from the 3 to 12 cases (median, 4) of suspected wound botulism reported during the October to December timeframe in 2015 through 2019. Recent investigations suggest that opiate use and IDU have increased over the course of the COVID-19 pandemic, potentially resulting in more persons at risk of acquiring wound botulism. Furthermore, challenges to medical care access and burden during the pandemic may have resulted in delay in patients seeking care or missed botulism diagnosis by providers.

Clinical Syndrome and Treatment

Presenting symptoms of botulism usually include multiple cranial nerve abnormalities such as ptosis, blurred vision, and dysphagia, which can progress to a descending paralysis and respiratory failure. Wound botulism associated with IDU is the most common type of botulism identified among adults in California. Persons who inject black tar heroin are at especially high risk for wound botulism; neither cooking the drug nor cleaning drug paraphernalia (“works”) decreases risk for botulism as the Clostridial spores are not inactivated by those measures.

Not all IDU-associated wound botulism patients present with a visible abscess or infected wound; in addition, a history of neurological symptoms may be difficult to obtain and may resemble drug intoxication or withdrawal. Clinicians should therefore have a high index of suspicion for wound botulism when a patient with a history of IDU presents with symptoms compatible with botulism, as rapid clinical diagnosis is essential to ensure appropriate treatment. Delayed or missed diagnoses at initial presentation may result in more severe outcomes. However, confirmatory diagnosis requires a specialized public health laboratory test and may take weeks to finalize. Therefore, treatment should be based on clinical diagnosis and not be delayed for laboratory confirmation of botulism.

In addition to intensive supportive care, treatment for non-infant botulism includes administering botulinum antitoxin (BAT) as soon as possible. BAT does not reverse paralysis but arrests its progression by binding to free botulinum toxin, which prevents it from being internalized further in the neuromuscular junction. Healthcare providers should immediately report suspected cases of botulism to the LHD. Consultation for suspected cases is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week through the LHD. The LHD will work with CDPH for consultation and coordinate specimen collection for laboratory testing, and CDPH will coordinate with CDC for BAT release. The Los Angeles County (LAC) Department of Public Health authorizes the release of BAT from CDC and tests for botulism for LAC residents hospitalized within their jurisdiction. Note that infant botulism, affecting infants less than 15 months of age, is managed separately through the infant botulism program.

Additional Resources

The CDPH has created a poster that warns of the increased risk of wound botulism associated with injecting black tar heroin that can be shared with persons at risk.

Additional information and materials may be found on the CDPH botulism and CDC IDU and wound botulism pages.

GET THE LEAD OUT: ARE YOUR PATIENTS MISSING MANDATED BLOOD LEAD TESTING DUE TO COVID-19?

Update from the California Department of Public Health, Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Branch

The California Department of Public Health (CDPH) urges physicians to remind at-risk pediatric patients about their required blood lead tests.

Statewide, there has been a significant decrease in blood lead testing due to COVID-19.

Additionally, an analysis in the California State Auditor’s Report 2019-105, issued January 7, 2020, determined from fiscal years 2009-2010 through 2017-2018, more than 1.4 million one-and two-year-old children did not receive any of the required tests, and another 740,000 children missed one of the two tests.

The chart above shows the extent of the drop in testing from January 2020 through May 2020 with the onset of COVID-19 restrictions, compared to the same period in 2019. While there was slight rebound in testing nationwide, pediatric testing in young children continues to lag behind the general population.
If well-child checks and mandated blood lead testing are missed due to COVID-19 or for other reasons, catch-up testing requirements are:

- When testing is missed at 12 months of age, catch-up testing is mandated between 12 and 24 months of age.
- When testing is missed at age 24 months or later, catch-up testing is mandated for children ages 24 months to 72 months.

At-risk children mandated to be blood lead tested at ages 12 and 24 months under current California regulations include:

- Children in publicly funded programs for low-income children including:
  - Medicaid/Medi-Cal
  - CHDP
  - WIC
- Children not in a publicly supported program for low income children whose parents or guardians answer “yes” or “don’t know” to the following question:
  - “Does your child live in, or spend a lot of time in a place built before 1978 that has peeling or chipped paint, or that has been recently renovated?”

For California regulations, blood lead test indications, and requirements for catch-up testing, please visit CDPH’s Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Branch (CLPPB), California Screening Regulations webpage.

AB 2276: Childhood Lead Poisoning Updates

Assembly Bill (AB) 2276 was signed into law September 2020, adding risk factors that CDPH needs to consider as part of the standard of care. The law requires all children up to 72 months to be evaluated for risk of lead poisoning by healthcare providers during their periodic health assessment.
These additional risk factors include:
- Residency in or visit to a foreign country.
- Residency in a high-risk zip code.
- A child who has a sibling or playmate with lead poisoning.
- The likelihood of a child placing non-food items in the mouth.
- Proximity to current or former lead-producing facilities.
- The likelihood of a child using food, medicine, or dishes from other countries.

Existing law (AB 1316, Statutes of 2017) requires CDPH to consider risk factors that include:
- Proximity to a former lead or steel smelter.
- Proximity to an industrial facility that historically or currently emits lead.
- Proximity to a freeway or heavily traveled road.
- Spending time in a home, school, or building built before 1978.
- Other potential risk factors for lead exposure and known sources of lead contamination.

As required by these laws, CDPH is currently promulgating revised healthcare provider standard of care regulations which consider the additional specified risk factors. The regulations are expected to publicly notice in 2021.

Explanation of Disciplinary Language and Actions

“Effective date of decision” — Example: “March 14, 2020” at the bottom of the summary means the date the disciplinary decision goes into operation.

“Gross negligence” — An extreme deviation or departure from the standard of care.

“Incompetence” — Lack of knowledge or skills in discharging professional obligations.

“Judicial review pending” — The disciplinary decision is being challenged through the court system, i.e., Superior Court, Court of Appeal, or State Supreme Court. The discipline is currently in effect.

“Probationary License” — A conditional license issued to an applicant with probationary terms and conditions. This is done when cause exists to deny the license application, but limitations can be put in place to protect the public.

“Public Letter of Reprimand” — A lesser form of discipline that can be negotiated after or in lieu of the filing of formal charges. The reprimand may include educational and clinical training requirements.

“Revoked” — The right to practice is ended due to disciplinary action. The license is invalidated, voided, annulled, or rescinded.

“Revoked, stayed, 5 years’ probation with terms and conditions, including 60 days suspension” — “Stayed” means the revocation is postponed. Professional practice may continue so long as the licensee complies with specified probationary terms and conditions which, in this example, includes 60 days of actual suspension from practice. Violation of any term of probation may result in the revocation that was postponed.

“Stipulated Decision or Settlement” — A form of plea bargaining. The case is formally negotiated and settled prior to hearing.

“Surrender” — To resolve a disciplinary action, the licensee has given up his or her license — subject to acceptance by the Board.

“Suspension from practice” — The licensee is prohibited from practicing for a specific period of time.
